Announcing the Inaugural CDISC Asia-Pacific Interchange 2013

“Streamlining Global Research through Standards”

Join us on 18-22 February 2013 in Singapore! The CDISC Asia-Pacific Interchange will be held on 20-21 February and Educational Courses will be offered on 18, 19 & 22 February 2013.

The Interchange is intended to encourage those in the biomedical research arena in the Asia Pacific region to engage with CDISC directly by participating in this educational networking event. Partake in this interchange and gain knowledge on how CDISC, the common language for global clinical research, works! You will hear from experts representing global organizations including Sanofi, GSK and Quintiles and from CDISC leaders. You will have the opportunity to learn how you can streamline clinical research studies, while improving quality and adhering to global regulations; you will also better understand how research links with healthcare to streamline the entire process. Anyone interested in medical research expansion in the Asia Pacific region can benefit from attending this conference.

The program committee is now accepting abstracts for presentations at the conference. The deadline for submission of abstracts is 28 September 2012. More information on the CDISC Asia-Pacific Abstract Submission can be found here.
