

CDISC Membership Terms – 2026

Eligibility

CDISC Membership is open to a wide range of individuals and organizations involved in clinical research and data management. This includes Pharmaceutical and Biotechnology Companies, Academic and Research Institutions, Contract Research Organizations (CROs), Regulatory Agencies, Healthcare Providers, and Technology and Software Vendors. Membership is designed to support those who are committed to building and improving clinical data standards and tools, including data managers, statisticians, programmers, data scientists, clinical researchers, and other professionals in related fields. Membership is subject to approval by CDISC.

Membership Fees

Level: Organizations select a membership level (Gold or Platinum) based on their revenue and needs. Membership rates are determined by the total revenue of the organization. Upon approval by the CDISC Membership and Leadership Team, an invoice will be issued for the annual membership fee. View CDISC Membership Levels here.

Fees: Payment is required to activate membership benefits, and membership is valid for one year from the date of activation. Fees are payable annually and are subject to change. A portion of membership fees can be considered a donation and are tax-deductible. Membership fees are non-refundable except as required by law.

Renewal Process

Process: Membership is renewed annually. Members will receive renewal notices and accompanying invoices approximately three months (90 days), two months (60 days), and one month (30 days) prior to the renewal date.

After the renewal date has passed, members can expect to receive Late Notices from CDISC approximately one day after the renewal date and again 30 days after renewal. At 90 days past the renewal date, if the renewal invoice remains unpaid, the membership will be cancelled.

Standard Payment Terms: CDISC's standard payment terms are Net 30 days from invoice issue or renewal date. However, we understand that some members require a purchase order (PO) prior to payment. In such cases, once the PO is received and the invoice is resubmitted, we recognize that extended payment terms of 45 to 90 days may apply, depending on the member organization's internal policies.

Termination: We understand that delays in payment occur. If membership dues are not received within 30 days of the renewal date, a reminder will be sent via email. If payment remains outstanding after an additional 60 days (totaling 90 days from the original renewal date), access to member benefits may be suspended, and the membership may be considered cancelled. CDISC will make every effort to notify members before taking further action. Upon receipt of outstanding dues, lapsed memberships will be reinstated. (CDISC reserves the right to terminate membership without further notice if payment is not received within 90 days of renewal date.)

Charitable Contributions

As a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, CDISC supports its members in taking advantage of tax deductions allowed under U.S. tax law. Specifically, members can deduct 60% of their membership fees as a charitable contribution. CDISC is committed to assisting members with this process by providing any necessary supporting documentation, ensuring compliance with IRS regulations, and making the deduction process as straightforward as possible.

Membership Benefits

CDISC Membership provides organizations with full access to CDISC Standards in multiple digital formats, advanced tools like the CDISC Library and API, and expert-curated resources through the Knowledge Base. Members gain implementation support, discounted training and event rates, and opportunities to engage with thought leaders, advisory committees, and innovation initiatives such as 360i. Higher membership tiers offer expanded benefits, including influence on CDISC governance, collaboration opportunities, and exclusive forums for showcasing solutions. Overall, membership empowers organizations to accelerate standards adoption, improve interoperability, and drive innovation in clinical research. Member Obligations

As a CDISC Member and when working with CDISC on projects, you and your organization agree to comply with all CDISC Bylaws and Policies.

CDISC Name and Logo Policy: The CDISC name and logo are USPTO registered trademarks. These can be used or referenced to indicate that your organization is a CDISC member organization; however, they may not be used to endorse or name a product. Such use is a breach of the CDISC trademark and CDISC policy. However, CDISC members can use the Membership Badge provided by the CDISC Membership Team to indicate that your organization is a member of CDISC which you may add to your website, event booths or business cards.

Vendor Neutrality Policy: CDISC is a vendor-neutral, non-profit organization, and does not endorse any specific company or product.
